

A diagram of a horizontal beam. At the left end, there is a vertical reaction force represented by a thick black line. At the right end, there is a diagonal reaction force represented by a thick black line pointing upwards and to the right.

